

Will China expand its energy storage capacity by 2025?

China aims to further develop its new energy storage capacity, which is expected to advance from the initial stage of commercialization to large-scale development by 2025, with an installed capacity of more than 30 million kilowatts, regulators said.

What are China's Energy Storage plans?

On 15 July, national plans for energy storage were set out by the Chinese National Development and Reform Commission and National Energy Administration. The main goals of new energy storage development include: Full market development by 2030. 1) Strengthening planning guidance to encourage the diversification of energy storage;

Will China's energy storage policy triple our capacity forecast?

China's proposed policy to accelerate energy storage deployments - with a target to take its energy storage capacity to 30 gigawatts (GW) by 2025 - could triple our current capacity forecast. The five-year timeframe could prove challenging from an economic standpoint, but China has good reason to push ahead.

What is China's energy storage policy?

A key point of the proposed energy storage policy is the pairing of renewables - wind and solar - investments with storage systems equivalent to 5-20% of renewable capacity in China's still highly regulated power market.

Will energy storage cost decrease by 30 percent by 2025?

“While the cost-learning curve is still relatively slow now, the 14th Five-Year-Plan (2021-25) has made a clear goal for the per unit cost of energy storage to decrease by 30 percent by 2025. This will hopefully accelerate the industry pace.” China is currently the world's biggest power generator.
