This just sent me down a rabbit hole of watching these commercials. There's one where a woman in a commercial kitchen is talking about the good things going on in her life, and then she slips on the floor, dumping a pot of boiling water on herself and screaming in agony. Then quick cut to "That's the power of PineSol, baby." Here's ...

If you see orange smoke billowing out near the center of town, hit it with pine. Don't bother trying to clean the infected people, they'll vomit for 2 minutes, and it cannot be removed by priest, paladin, or potion. ... It uses the power of pine to fight funky smells. Do your part to keep Southshore clean, and I'll give you some Hallow's End ...

Pine-Sol is a registered trade name of the Clorox Company for a line of household cleaning products, used to clean grease and heavy soil stains. Pine-Sol was based on pine oil when it was created in 1929 and during its rise to national popularity in the 1950s. [3] By 2016, Pine-Sol products sold in stores no longer contained pine oil, which was done to reduce costs. [4]
